The Senator Had a Yearly Income $1,665,000 from the Southern Pacific Alone-His Daily Expenses Averaged 81,000 - S. T. Gage, It Is Thought Will Have Charge of the Railroad Interests of the Estate.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—In the public estimation Senator Stanford was worth from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000. Whether the Senator rated himself at these figures is not known, but as for years past his expenses have been $1,000 a day, or $30,000 month, he certainly had at his command an

The bulk of his fortune is included in the Company, of which William E. Brown is Brooklyn Stores, 464 and 466 Fulton St. The Pacific Improvement Company owns the Contract and Finance Company, which built diate successor of the Western Development Company. It is a pool of the railroad posses tions or the four interests that own and control the Southern Pacific Company.

From a statement made by the railroad officials the Stanford estate apparently owns an interest in the Southern Pacific Company that has a cash value of $24,000,000 and receives annual interest to the amount of $895,000. To the latter must be added $750,000 received annually from the com pany's surplus earnings. So the annual in me from the railroad is $1.665,000.

Stabford's interest in the cable roads of San Francisco represents a goodly sum also. The Street railroads owned by the company pay 10 per cent. net annually on a valuation of $13,000,000, and it is safe to say that his street-railroad interest could be sold for $4,000,000 and that it yields $300,000 annually in profits. He leaves to his estate in addition about one hundred thousand acres of land and the fine mansion in this city and a residence in Sacramento. The real estate is setimated to be worth $0,000,000 more. That stanford died worth $3,000,000 is believed to be a reasonable estimate of his wealth.

to be a reasonable estimate of his wealth.

People are now asking about what kind of will the Senator made. It is known to be a fact that he has left a will with two coulcils attached. Mrs. Stanford is made sole executrix of the vast estate, and generous legacies and bequests are left to relatives and friends. The will was drawn up about five years ago by the late Samuel M. Wilson. It is not a very long document.

FUNERAL OF SENATOR STANFORD. It Will Be Held Saturday in the Un It is not a very long document.

A prominent Southern Pacific official, in speaking about the will, volunteered the information that while making his wife sole exceptive, senator Stanford has advised her in his will to authorize Stephen T. Gage to take direct charge of the management of the railroad property of the estate, to employ as mancial adviser N. T. Smith, who was a partner with the Senator in stores at Coid Spring and Michigan Bluff, in this State, in 1852 and 1853, and who is now Treasurer of the Southern Pacific Company, and to engage United States Circuit Judge McKenta as a legal adviser.

There are some people who think that Ariel Lathrop will be one of the advisory executors because for years he had charge of the private business of the Senator. He resigned his position with the Senator, a fear ago and went black to Albany, N. Y., to live. He left here with the intention of nover returning. This latter lact gave rise at the time to the opinion that his relations with the Senator were not friendly. In view of this, some people think that N. T. Smith will be ah advisory executor instead of the sitate is to go as an endowment and for the Leland Stanford, Jr., Chiversity, supplemental to the original deed of trust on behalf of that institution. In the handling of the scate is to go as an endowment and for the Leland Stanford, Jr., Chiversity, supplemental to the original deed of trust on behalf of the allowed the control of the scate is to go as an endowment and for the Leland Stanford, Jr., Chiversity, supplemental to the original deed of trust on behalf of the university Mrs. Stanford Larkrop.

The will of course specifies that the bulk of the scate is to go as an endowment and for the property as relates to improvements of and expenditures on behalf of the university Mrs. Stanford Larkrop.

Mrs. Nicholas was the widow of Nathaniel Bishop, a once wealthy merchant, and during the war was a famous nurse in military hospitals. She gave away what money she possessed and after ner son's death had a hard time getting along.

Augustin Daly raised a fund of $2,000 for her. In her plot at Greenwood she had a dozen strangers buried at her expense. She finally succeeded in having the physicians indicted who dissected her son, and they were tried June 28, 1892, in General Sessions, but the jury disagreed. She was unable to secure a retrial.

"You are well and strong, aren't you?" she asked.

"Quite so, lady, thanks to a beneficent Providence," he said reverently.

"Why, then, don't you work for a living instead of begging for it?"

He finished 'he last sliver of ment on the bone, wiped his mouth with his sleeve and looked in her face frankly.

"Well, madam," he said with prescision, "I've tried working and I've tried begging, and I discover that people for find more fault with the work I do, so I have concluded to choose the lesser evil and stick to it.
